502 East 87th Street is an exceptional 18-foot-wide single-family townhouse on a quiet, tree-lined Upper East Side block. Spanning four floors plus a full basement, the residence combines classic architectural character with modern comfort, featuring soaring ceilings, oversized windows, original details, and a gracious living room with a marble wood-burning fireplace.

The garden level features an open kitchen with Wolf and Sub-Zero appliances, a charming dining room, and direct access to an extraordinary 55-foot, south-facing garden. Four bedrooms and three full bathrooms occupy the upper floors, including a spacious primary suite with an en-suite bath.

Additional highlights include central air, extensive storage, additional air rights, and a large open cellar. Ideally located near Carl Schurz Park, the East River Promenade, and Gracie Mansion, the home offers a rare combination of scale, privacy, and exceptional outdoor space.
